

Stuart Malley Biography

Mr. Malley completed his undergraduate and graduate studies in Civil Engineering at the University of Tennessee. He then received an MBA from the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

Mr. Malley began his professional career at the National Center for Asphalt Technology, followed by employment at Vulcan. While there he worked first as a Research Engineer managing an AASHTO accredited lab, then as the Technical Services Manager overseeing quality operations for 36 quarries. Stuart currently serves as the Technical Services Manager for Ash Grove Cement Company.